It is the Hindi remake of Chopra's first film, Satyameva Jayate (2006), which itself was a remake of M. Night Shyamalan's comedy film, Lady in the Water (2001), directed by Deepa Mehta and starring Aishwarya Rai. Upon release, the film was a critical and commercial success, winning multiple awards, including the National Film Award for Best Feature Film in Hindi and the Filmfare Award for Best Film – Hindi. Plot The film begins with the lead character Bhushan Pratap Singh 'Bhush' (Nawazuddin Siddiqui) being selected by a math teacher to be his teaching assistant for a year. Bhush is the most popular student in his class and is popular for his sense of humour. Bhush is a short-tempered and temperamental person who smokes and drinks, and does not follow rules. He has a habit of staring at women. One day, while returning home from a party, he is picked up by the police for having drunk and urinated in public. The police officer asks him to cough up the white powder he had spat out. Bhush throws the powder away. Later, when the officer is out of sight, he opens the zippered compartment in the car and finds an unopened pack of tissues containing white powder. He is sent to jail for 3 days. After spending time in jail, Bhush decides to take a pledge to be a "no-drug person", so that he can get rid of his habit of smoking. He begins to drive an old car without a horn and his friend Kabir, who also smokes, persuades him to stop drinking. Bhush is given the opportunity to teach a class on mathematics for a year. His students include: Shyam (the maths teacher), Harsh (a mathematics graduate), Vir (a chemistry graduate), Amba (a law graduate), Aryan (a theatre student), Muskaan (a salesgirl), Narayan (a restaurant worker) and his friends Mahesh and Kabir (who teach him how to play the guitar). At the end of his first year, Bhush's class is asked to give a written test on mathematics. The students are asked to draw a line graph showing the number of items sold in a shop each day. The first student draws a line with a single point, stating "I sold one item only". The next student, Shy 82157476af
